MILITARY SCIENCE

MILS 0011  INTRODUCTION TO THE ARMY  1 cr.
Offered during the fall term. This freshman course is an introduction to Army ROTC. Course instruction includes survival techniques, first aid, wear of the military uniform and organization, role and branches of the U.S. Army.

MILS 0012  LEADERSHIP AND DECISION MAKING  1 cr.
Offered during the spring term. This freshman course is an introduction to Army ROTC. Course instruction includes leadership and management, drill and ceremonies, land navigation, basic, pistol/rifle marksmanship and organization and role of the U.S. Army Reserve and National Guard units.

MILS 0021  LEADERSHIP DYNAMICS AND APPLICATIONS  1 cr.
Offered during the fall term. This sophomore course is an introduction to Army ROTC. Course instruction includes the total Army concept, Army rank and structure, leadership and management, land navigation and drill and ceremonies.

MILS 0022  APPL OF LEADERSHIP AND COMBAT POWER  1 cr.
Offered during the spring term. This sophomore course is an introduction to Army ROTC. Course instruction includes group communication, decision making and problem solving techniques, military history, leadership and management and land navigation.

MILS 1031  TRAINING MANAGEMENT  1 cr.
Offered during the fall term. This junior course prepares the Army ROTC student for commissioning into the U.S. Army as a second lieutenant. Course instruction is coupled with practical exercises in tactical and technical military subjects with particular emphasis on leadership development, problem solving and decision making.

MILS 1032  ADV LEADERSHIP PLANNING-COMBAT OPERATION  1 cr.
Offered during the spring term. This junior course prepares the Army ROTC student for commissioning into the U.S. Army as a second lieutenant. Course instruction is coupled with practical exercises in tactical and technical military subjects with particular emphasis on leadership development, problem solving and decision making.

MILS 1041  THE ARMY OFFICER  1 cr.
Offered during the fall term. This senior course continues to prepare the army ROTC student for commissioning into the U.S. army as a second lieutenant. Course instruction emphasizes leadership, army operations and procedures.