The University of Pittsburgh School of Social Work has been ranked as one of the top social work graduate programs in the country for the past twenty years by U.S. News & World Report.

Degrees offered:
- BASW
- MSW
- PhD

Two MSW Specializations:
- Direct Practice with Individuals, Families, and Groups
- Community, Organization, and Social Action (COSA)

Joint Masters degrees and programs:
- MSW/MPH with the School of Public Health
- MSW/JD with the Law School
- MSW/MBA with the Business School
- MSW/MDiv with Pittsburgh Theological Seminary

Faculty with a wide range of expertise in many topics:
- Mental health
- Child Welfare
- Race
- Interprofessional health
- Aging
- Interpersonal violence

all within a community engagement framework

Direct Practice Certificate programs:
- Gerontology
- Home and School Visitor/School Social Worker
- Children, Youth and Families
- Integrated Healthcare
- Mental Health

Transforming our world. Our future. Ourselves.
By the Numbers

Educational Excellence

- 2nd largest child welfare program in the country
- 1st and oldest standing community organizing program in the country
- 166 The School provided 166 paid training and pre-doctoral fellowships totaling more than $2 million dollars in student support for FY 2019.

Diversity & Inclusion

- Center on Race and Social Problems (CRSP) is the first and only interdisciplinary race center in a school of social work in the country.
- Over 30% students of color
- Over 37% full-time faculty members are faculty of color

Scholarship & Research

- 3 research centers
  - Center on Race and Social Problems (CRSP)
  - Child Welfare Resource Center
  - Center for Interventions to Enhance Community Health (CiTECH)
- Over $1.9 million in research expenditures
- Over $24 million in training grants
- 41 active research projects

Community Engagement

- 2 community engagement centers embedded in the community and supported by the University.
- Over 600 field work opportunities including over 200 mental health placements
- Over 350,000 field placement hours to service agencies and organizations worth over $8.6 million annually.

Alumni & Career Networks

- Over 10,000 alumni
  - Over 4,428 VanKirk Career Center offers one-on-one career counseling
  - 4,428 Continuing Education program attendees
  - Here in Pittsburgh
  - Across the country
  - Around the world